

Care Connections

By Donna Stocks, Bluebird Care

A connection was made the day I began
I quickly became your number one fan
It's now been a year since you entered my life and I've become so much more than a mother and wife.

A connection is made each day moving on
I know you wish you could live in days that have gone
We talk and we laugh about times from your past because these are your memories, the ones that will last.

A connection was made the day that I started.
This life, this career is not for the faint hearted.
Some days are great, not so like the days when you're fed up and feeling quite low.

A connection is made each time I return
Now that you know me you have no concerns.
A quick catch-up over a cuppa and we plan our week.
Because of stupid Covid any outings look bleak.

A connection is formed with both of our families,
gone is the newness and all formalities.
We all work together to reach the end goal
and that is to help you have more control.

A connection is made each time I go home
With the family I leave all on their own
It's a sacrifice I make 6 months of the year, our time together is precious with the ones we hold dear.

A connection dear reader I hope we have made, through these words on the paper I have thoughtfully laid.
Connections are formed, connections are broken,
I hope you've enjoyed these words I have spoken.

the care workers'
charity